

only ; for as this young lady had a very bad character, no one has undertaken to write her history.

The fairy (for it was plain that Verdurina was one) having distributed her gifts, ran into the wood and disappeared. The young maidens were all astonished at this apparition ; they abandoned their sports and the flowers they had gathered, to think on those which they had received.

D 3

Eve-